Day 3 Osaka - Kyoto - Toyohasi

After a breakfast, you will visit the famous landmark Osaka Castle Garden. Surrounded by greenery, the garden commands a beautiful view of the castle tower and the stone wall of a moat. Then enjoy some free time in Shinsaibasi, the premier shopping area in Osaka. Around 600 meters long, it's filled with trendy boutiques, retail chains, and luxury department stores like Daimaru, UniQlo, H&M, Bulgari, and Zara. Crossing the street and out of the covered arcade, you'll walk into this open area and see that large Glico man sign. That's when you know you're in Dotonbori. Originally installed in 1935, the giant Glico Man is Dotonbori's most iconic landmark. It's a symbol for the Glico candy company, makers of caramel candy and Pocky. Leave Osaka for Kyoto and make a stop at Fushimi Inari Shrine, an important Shinto shrine in southern Kyoto. It is famous for its thousands of vermilion torii gates, which straddle a network of trails behind its main buildings. The trails lead into the wooded forest of the sacred Mount Inari, which stands at 233 meters and belongs to the shrine grounds. Last visit Kinkakuji (Golden Pavilion), a Zen temple in northern Kyoto whose top two floors are completely covered in gold leaf. Formally known as Rokuonji, the temple was the retirement villa of the shogun Ashikaga Yoshimitsu, and according to his will it became a Zen temple of the Rinzai sect after his death in 1408. Kinkakuji was the inspiration for the similarly named Ginkakuji (Silver Pavilion), built by Yoshimitsu's grandson, Ashikaga Yoshimasa, on the other side of the city a few decades later. Kinkakuji is an impressive structure built overlooking a large pond, and is the only building left of Yoshimitsu's former retirement complex. It has burned down numerous times throughout its history including twice during the Onin War, a civil war that destroyed much of Kyoto; and once again more recently in 1950 when it was set on fire by a fanatic monk. The present structure was rebuilt in 1955. Then transfer to your hotel in Toyohasi. Overnight: Losir Hotel Toyohasi or similar

Day 4 Toyohasi - Shizuoka - Lake Yamanaka - Mt Fuji - Yamanashi

Drive to Shizuoka City, the capital of Japanese tea production and visit a local tea house. Shizuoka Prefecture contains 40% of the total area of tea plantations in Japan. Black tea, Taiwan tea, and Chinese tea are all fantastic, but after trying some of the best Japanese tea in Shizuoka City, you will find yourself loving Japanese green tea the most. Then drive through the countryside and mountains to reach Lake Yamanaka, the largest of all the Fuji Five Lakes which offers a good view of Mt. Fuji. It is located in the village of Yamanakako of Yamanashi Prefecture populated by many swans. Thus, it has been unofficially called "Swan Lake." Some of these swans are the real animals, others are man-made swans such as swan-like paddled boats added to the lake. Take a scenic boat ride to tour around the lake. It just makes the whole place a paradise of swans! Drive all the way to Mt Fuji 5th Station (weather permitting) . At 2300 meters above sea level, the Fuji 5th Station offers a commanding view of the Fuji Five Lakes area below, making it a popular spot for those who are not intent on climbing the mountain. An observation point with unobstructed views of Fujiyoshida City and Lake Yamanaka can be found at Komitake Shrine behind the shops. Tonight enjoy a special local dinner and taste the famous Japanese cuisine! Overnight: Route Inn Kawakuchigo or similar

Day 5 Yamansi - Kanagawa - Tokyo

This morning, you will visit Great Buddha of Kamakura, is a bronze statue of Amida Buddha, which stands on the grounds of Kotokuin Temple. With a height of 13.35 meters, it is the second tallest bronze Buddha statue in Japan, surpassed only by the statue in Nara's Todaiji Temple. Then visit Hase Temple (Hasedera), a temple of the Jodo sect, famous for its eleven-headed statue of Kannon, the goddess of mercy. The 9.18 meter tall, gilded wooden statue is regarded as one of the largest wooden sculpture in Japan and can be viewed in the temple's main building, the Kannon-do Hall. According to legend, it was carved from the same tree as the similarly tall Kannon statue worshiped at the Hasedera Temple in Nara Prefecture. Drive to Yokohama and visit Minato Mirai 21. A seaside urban area in central Yokohama whose name means "harbor of the future", it has many large high-rises, including the Landmark Tower, which was Japan's tallest building from 1993 until 2014. The area was a large shipyard until the 1980s, when development began to turn it into a new city center. After an enjoyable day of sightseeing drive to Tokyo and view the Tokyo Metropolitan Government Building. Located in Shinjuku, the building consists of a complex of three structures, each taking up a city block. Overnight: Hundred Stay Tokyo or similar

Day 6 Tokyo

Enjoy a free day in Tokyo to explore the capital city of Japan, where over 11 million people live, making the population one of the largest in the world. Tokyo is not only the political and economical centre of Japan and it has also emerged as a centre of the world economy and culture. Tradition and modern are co-exist in today's Tokyo. Overnight: Hundred Stay Tokyo or similar

Day 14 – Arrive Home

Busan - South Korea's second-largest city is known for its colossal fish market. The top shore excursions include visits to the Busan Tower, Taeshin Park and the crowded beaches at Haeundae. Tourists will also want to experience the extraordinary views from the mountaintop Kumjongsansong Fortress or listen to the chanting of the monks at the Tongdosa Temple.

Yokkaichi - Although not the capital of Mie Prefecture, Yokkaichi City is the most populous city, boasting some 314,393 (2010 census figures). The city of Yokkaichi in Mie Prefecture received its name from having been a market town, developed during the Azuchi- Momoyama Period (circa 1568-1603). In those days, a regular market was staged at the port on the 4th, 14th and 24th of every month, hence the name became roughly "The market on the 4th day", Yokkaichi. During the Meiji Period, Yokkaichi rapidly advanced, being designated an Official International Port in 1899 just 30 years after Japan's opening up to the west following 250 years of self imposed isolation. This was mostly due to the efforts of a local merchant, Inaba Sanuemon who led the modernization of the ports facilities. Seed oil, Banko ware ceramics and tea were the original items shipped out of Yokkaichi, which has gone on to include textiles including wool and cotton, as well as machinery, automobiles and heavy equipment.
