The Weather – Best time to visit the Sunshine Coast

The weather is generally mild all year round. We don't suffer the dry heat like the southern areas of the country, nor the humidity of far North Queensland. We are perfectly positioned to capture comfortable winters and warm summers. This blend allows locals and visitors to make the most of our region.

Anytime is the best time to visit! In fact we are aptly named the Sunshine Coast because we average 7 hours of radiant sunlight everyday making for a great sun-smart tan. All four seasons are generally great. In the Summer you may get some rainfall but at least it's warm.

What is Winter like on the Sunshine Coast?

The weather along the coastal towns of Caloundra, Mooloolaba, Marcoola, Coolumb and Noosa, all the way up to the Great Sandy Straits, experience great weather. In fact, overnight temperatures average 8 degrees Celsius while daytime tops average 25 degrees Celsius. If you are from Victoria or New South Wales you'll see plenty of your statesmen with their colourful number plates hogging our caravan parks. LOL!

If you head inland towards the Sunshine Coast Hinterland then the temperatures will drop by up to 5 degrees. The further west you go, the cooler it will feel.
